Well Control School Becomes First Well Control Training Provider to Offer ESG Training in Combination with Their Classes

New Training Programs Stamped ESG Compliant by Twin Horse Environmental

HOUSTON, March 7, 2023 - Well Control School today announced the launch of The ESG OpS Training Program. Deemed ESG compliant by Twin Horse Environmental, the new program is the first of its kind for the well control industry, reflecting WCS's position as a leader in meeting a new generation of industry challenges. A critical part of the risk analysis process that continues to grow in importance, ESG (Environmental, Social, and Governance) reporting provides investors insight into a company's environmental impact which can have a significant leverage on its short- and long-term value.

"With international market pressure for investors to divest from energy companies that are not prioritizing in ESG increasing, Twin Horse Environmental created a comprehensive training program that will enable our students and companies to earn Certificates in ESG Compliance," said Ryan Hays of WCS. "The ESG OpS program expands training beyond traditional well control topics to ensure students understand ESG through risk management / risk assessment, how it fits into their everyday work, and how to make impactful decisions for their companies."

A Pathway to Better Performance

By making ESG training and awareness part of their well control training classes, WCS is assisting companies that participate in the program to be better equipped to achieve their ESG goals, providing a competitive advantage that can lead to improved financial benefits, stronger ties with stakeholders, and more sustainable long-term operations.

Bringing Three Levels of ESG Training to the Oilfield

This comprehensive program is divided into 3 distinct levels to facilitate a company's options to better target their employees, providing awareness classes for most personnel to in-depth training for upper management and HSE professionals. Classes include, ESG Awareness (1 hr.), ESG Training (4 hrs.), and ESG Mastery (8 hrs.). The new ESG Awareness Training will be offered free with every Well Control Supervisor course and upon request, the 4hr and 8hr version are available as stand-alone classes. In keeping with the high standards of WCS, all program instructors have attended intense training and have been deemed authorized to administer the ESG Ops classes by Twin Horse Environmental. As a global training provider, WCS is certified to provide IADC and IWCF certified classes worldwide at all levels for their customers.

“As the authorizing agent for The ESG OpS Training Program, we are proud to have worked with WCS on this important new initiative,” said Monica P. Cervantes, Owner of Twin Horse Environmental. “The program will help more oil and gas companies know the best practices for creating a solid risk management plan and how to create a culture that has a greater understanding of ESG.”
